PREVIEW – DIVING

Evergreens vs Newcomers – New Diving Champions in sight – 26 Federations eyeing 39 medals in Belgrade

Belgrade (LEN) – Divers from 26 Federations, three more than in Rome 2022, will set their eyes on the medals at the upcoming European Aquatics Championships in Belgrade. The Serbian capital will welcome numerous diving powerhouses like Italy, Germany, Great Britain, Ukraine and France which will be represented by some highly decorated divers as well as by a number of young promising talents. For some of them the competitions just six weeks ahead of the start of the Olympic Games 2024 in Paris will present a last dress rehearsal, for others it will be a great opportunity to step onto the podium for the very first time.

A total of 39 medals in 13 diving events – 1m, 3m springboard, 10m platform, 3m and 10m synchro, each for men and women, as well as the team event and the mixed synchronised events on the 3m springboard as well as the 10m platform – will be awarded.

Diving (3m springboard and 10m platform) has been on the programme of European Aquatic Championships since its first edition in 1926 in Budapest (in the men’s category; the women entered one year later in Bologna). The synchronised events were introduced to the European Championships for the first time in 1997.

Keeping in mind that one year after the 2022 Europeans in the iconic Foro Italico the diving elite also met in Rzeszow, Poland, where the complete diving programme with 13 events had been a part of the 2023 European Games, the competitions in Belgrade will be the third successive European Championship.

The team event – an official European Championship event since 2012 – will be held for the 12th time, while new rules (4 divers instead of 2) will apply for the fifth time. The mixed synchronised events celebrated their premiere at the 2016 Europeans in London.

Just like in swimming, the Belgrade meet is going to be the second diving Europeans held outdoors since 2010 (Budapest), and – after Rome 2022 – the second major championship under the (hopefully) blue skies since the 2013 FINA World Championships in Barcelona (5 out of the first seven World Champs were held outdoors in the new millennium: 2003, 2005, 2009, 2011, 2013, since then most major diving competitions moved indoors: Olympics, Worlds, Europeans). Only the 2016 Olympics in Rio were carried out outdoors.

Powerhouses Ukraine and Germany entered 12 events, Great Britain in 9 and Italy in 8

From the four European “diving powerhouses” Ukraine, Italy, Great Britain and Germany, Ukraine and Germany have entered 12 out of 13 events. The Ukrainians only skipped the women’s 1m springboard event while Germany will not compete in the women’s 10m synchro competition. Great Britain entered 9 events, Italy 8.

Those four teams will be the main medal contenders in Belgrade. Additionally, France (with Alexis Jandard), Sweden (with Emma Nilsson Garip, silver medallist in the 1m and 3m events at the European Games in Poland) and Austria with their top ten finishers at past events might also play an important role when the medals will be at stake.

Host Serbia entered 5 divers. 22-year-old Katarina Ilic and 15-year-old prodigy Tara Vesic will compete in the Women’s 1m event. Their male compatriots Nikola Parausic and Bogdan Savic (1m and 3m springboard and Men’s synchro 3m) as well as Aleksa Teofilovic (10m platform) will celebrate their international debuts on elite level, too.

Great Britain, who topped the medal table in Rome with 6 gold, 3 silver and 3 bronze (altogether 12) ahead of Italy (4-3-5 – 12), is ready to parade with Matthew Dixon (2022 World silver medallist and 2023 European bronze medallist in the 10m Synchro event). As his synchro partner Ben Cutmore is concentrating on the 10m individual event in Belgrade, Dixon will compete in the 1m and 3m event.

PREVIEW – DIVING

The two compatriots Desharné Bent-Ashmeil/Amy Rollinson, who claimed gold at the 2023 European Games in Rzeszów, will try to retain their title in the 3m synchro event.

Ukraine counts on their “evergreens” Oleg Kolodiy, Anna Pysmenska, Sofiia Lyskun, Viktoriya Kesar and Kseniya Bailo. Together with his partner Danylo Konovalov, who is ten years his junior, Kolodiy will try to defend their 2023 title in the 3m synchro event. Lyskun, silver medallist in the synchro 10m event in Rome, will have to cope without her then partner Oleksii Sereda this time. She therefore concentrates on the single 10m event. And after winning silver in 2022 and 2023 in the 10m synchro event, Lyskun and Bailo will be aiming for gold in Belgrade 2024.

France landed four medals in Rzeszów – two silver (Alexis Jandard/1m, Jules Bouyer/3m) and two bronze (Jandard/3m, Jandard/Bouyer 3m synchro). With the sisters Jade and Nais Gillet, who both successfully changed from gymnastics to diving, Juliette Landi, and “old hand” Gary Hunt (he celebrated his 40th birthday on June 11), who also competed at the European high diving premiere in Rome but missed the podium finishing on fourth place, “Les Bleus” count among the top contenders for the medals this time round.

Team Germany had to handle the retirements of Martin Wolfram and Tina Punzel, both multiple European champions, as well as “Leitwolf” Patrick Hausding, the most successful diver in the history of European Championships with 15 European titles. Anyway, with promising young divers such as the already experienced Lou Massenber, Alexander Lube or Jana-Lisa Rother, Germany will always be good for medals. Lube and Rother won silver medals in the synchro events in Poland, while Massenber claimed the European title in the mixed 3m synchro in Rome with the now retired Tina Punzel.

Italy’s hopes lie with Matteo Santoro, who can already look back to six medals at European and World Championships, together with his mixed partner Chiara Pellacani (not competing in Belgrade) despite his young age. The 17-year-old from Rome will compete in the 1m and 3m event and the 3m synchro event with Stefano Belotti. Together they won gold at the European Junior Championships in Bucharest and the Junior Worlds in Montreal 2022.

Prize money for all medallists

In 2009, the first-ever stand-alone European Diving Championships (former European Diving Cup) took place in Turin, Italy. Since then, the divers have had the opportunity to compete in a continental event each year. In even years, diving is part of the European Aquatic Championships (due to the postponement of the 2020 edition, in that year the stand-alone diving Europeans weren’t held). Since Rostock 2015, LEN offers prize money for all medal winners at the diving championships and, additionally, travel assistance for all participating nations.

Here is the breakdown of the prize money for the respective events:

- Individual events -> 1st Place: 2,000 € - 2nd Place: 1,500 € - 3rd Place: 1,000 €
- Synchro/Team events -> 1st Place: 2,500 € - 2nd Place: 2,000 € - 3rd Place: 1,500 €

The following 26 LEN member federations have entered for Belgrade: ARM – Armenia, AUT – Austria, CRO – Croatia, CZE – Czech Republic, DEN – Denmark, ESP – Spain, FIN – Finland, FRA – France, GBR – Great Britain, GEO – Georgia, GER – Germany, GRE – Greece, HUN – Hungary, IRL – Ireland, ITA – Italy, LAT – Latvia, LTU – Lithuania, NED – Netherlands, NOR – Norway, POL – Poland, POR – Portugal, ROU – Romania, SRB – Serbia, SWE – Sweden, TUR – Turkey, UKR – Ukraine
